THE LAW OF NEWSPAPERS.

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary, are considered as wishing to continue their subscriptions.

2. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their papers, the publishers may continue to send them until all arrearages are paid.

3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their papers from the offices to which they are directed, they are held responsible until they have settled their bills and ordered their papers discontinued.

4. If subscribers remove to other places without informing the publishers, and papers sent to the former direction are not taken out, they are responsible.

5. The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers from the post office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

Stormy Winter.—It is predicted by the weather-wise, that the ensuing winter will be unusually stormy, marked by heavy falls of rain or snow or both.—The prediction is based upon the fact that about the same amount of water falls to the earth each year, and as much less than the usual proportion has fallen during the last six months, the balance is to be made up this winter.

Farmers.—Adam was a farmer while yet in Paradise, and after his fall commanded to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow. Job the, honest, upright and patient, was a farmer; and his endurance has passed into a proverb. Socrates was a farmer, and yet wedded to his calling the glory of his immortal philosophy. Cincinnatus was a farmer, and divided with Prometheus the honor of subjecting the ox for the use of man. Cincinnatus was a farmer, and the noblest Roman of them all. Burns was a farmer, and the muses found him at the plough and filled his soul with poetry. Washington was a farmer, and retired from the highest earthly station to enjoy the quiet of rural life, and present to the world a spectacle of human greatness. To these may be added a host of others who sought peace and repose in the cultivation of their mother earth. The enthusiastic Lafayette and the steadfast Pickering, the scholastic Jefferson, and the fiery Randolph, all found an Eldorado of consolation from life's cares and troubles, in the green and verdant lawns that surrounded their homesteads.—Washington Sentinel.

POLITICAL KNAVERY.

Uprightness of conduct is becoming and right, in every possible position in which a man may be called to act. No matter what a man's calling may be, as long as he finds it a duty to remain in it, he is bound to discharge the obligations that arise from it. When one man agrees to act in conjunction with others for a certain purpose, he is bound by every principle of honor to act his part precisely as he agreed to do, or resign his position.

An adherence to the principles of the compact by which associated bodies are formed, and by virtue of which its members are enabled to act together, is binding upon each member at all times, and must be resisted without hesitating the moment slightly attempted to treachery and bad faith.

We join no party with all its measures and not when it acts in accordance with fundamental principles. But to act upon such principles. But to act upon such principles. But to act upon such

LOCATION OF THE CAPITOL.

Action was had upon the bill from the House.

Mr. Mitchell moved to insert after Douglas county, two and one half miles North of Omaha. This extraordinary motion was received with great surprise, especially by the brave gents. If they were asleep by Mr. Mitchell's motion, they awoke to the realization that they were going for the Capitol with a pair of oxen to be appointed and maintained by the Capitol.

Mr. Richardson, of Nuckolls, offered a resolution to appoint Mitchell and Commissioners. Which, upon a fierce discussion was laid upon the table.
